DETAILED ACTION

1. This office action is responsive to the amendment filed on 07/28/2009.

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 102

2. The following is a quotation of the appropriate paragraphs of 35 U.S.C. 102 that form the basis for the rejections under this section made in this Office action:

A person shall be entitled to a patent unless –

(b) the invention was patented or described in a printed publication in this or a foreign country or in public use or on sale in this country, more than one year prior to the date of application for patent in the United States.

3. Claim1, 6, 12-14, 16, 18, and 20 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 102(b) as being anticipated by Lange (US Patent Application 2003/0142018 A1).

Lange discloses, in figure 1, an antenna device comprising an aggregated conductive wire consisting of mesh (22) or parallel element lines wherein the antenna is formed on a thin plate 21. The patent to Lange also teaches that the conductor material for the mesh are highly conductive metals such as aluminum, copper, gold, silver,..., see paragraph [0017], and the mesh are produced by an etching method, see paragraph [0021].

4. Claim1, 18, and 19 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 102(b) as being anticipated by Watanabe (US Patent 6,154,185).

Watanabe discloses, in figures 1a and 1b, an antenna device comprising an aggregated conductive wire consisting of mesh or polygonal elements.

5. Claim1, 12-16, 18, and 20 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 102(b) as being anticipated by Tuttle (US Patent 2,063,531).

Art Unit: 2821

Tuttle discloses, in figures 1-5, an antenna device comprising an aggregated copper wire consisting of mesh or parallel element lines wherein the antenna is formed on a sheet 10 and a thin sheet 12 covered the antenna.

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 103

6. The following is a quotation of 35 U.S.C. 103(a) which forms the basis for all obviousness rejections set forth in this Office action:

(a) A patent may not be obtained though the invention is not identically disclosed or described as set forth in section 102 of this title, if the differences between the subject matter sought to be patented and the prior art are such that the subject matter as a whole would have been obvious at the time the invention was made to a person having ordinary skill in the art to which said subject matter pertains. Patentability shall not be negated by the manner in which the invention was made.

7. The factual inquiries set forth in Graham v. John Deere Co., 383 U.S. 1, 148 USPQ 459 (1966), that are applied for establishing a background for determining obviousness under 35 U.S.C. 103(a) are summarized as follows:

1. Determining the scope and contents of the prior art.
2. Ascertaining the differences between the prior art and the claims at issue.
3. Resolving the level of ordinary skill in the pertinent art.
4. Considering objective evidence present in the application indicating obviousness or nonobviousness.

8. Claims 2-5, and 17 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 103(a) as being unpatentable over Lange.

The patent to Lange, described above, differs from the claimed invention because it does not disclose the specific width and pitch interval of the conductive wires. However, the specific dimension is considered an obvious matter of design choice depending on the desired characteristics of the antenna device. Regarding claim 17, the antenna which is used in an electromagnetic wave shielding filter is an intended use.

Allowable Subject Matter

9. Claims 8-11 are objected to as being dependent upon a rejected base claim, but would be allowable if rewritten in independent form including all of the limitations of the base claim and any intervening claims.
